

CBC Archives Activity

archives.cbc.ca

Introduction

In this activity, you will be listening to and viewing actual radio and television clips of Terry Fox's Marathon of Hope. You will get to hear Terry speak in his own words and see what he had to go through on his run.

You are learning about Terry Fox as you read through the novel. Now, you will be using other forms of media to learn about Terry. How is it similar? How is it different? What new things have you learned about him? What feelings do you have listening and viewing the clips?

You will complete the chart attached by following the instructions below and by viewing and listening to the following broadcasts in the particular order given.

Steps

- i. Go to archives.cbc.ca or go to the "Run" section of our class website and click the CBC archives link.
- ii. Across the top, select the tab that reads "Categories".
- iii. Scroll down to "Sports".
- iv. Scroll right and click on "Exploits".
- v. On this page, there is a listing of both television and radio broadcasts. Using the list on the backside of this page, you will listen to or watch the clips and complete the chart given. Look carefully through the list of clips to find the correct one.
